

Standard Roofing Batten and other treated timber products

- SR Timber Tanalised STANDARD roof battens are a basic version of the traditional roof batten that has been imported into the UK roofing and building sector for many years. The range also includes other key roofing and timber products.
- SR Timber Tanalised STANDARD roofing timber products are produced in carefully selected sawmills in the Baltics and Scandinavia, then imported as finished products to our timber terminal on the Humber.
- SR Timber Tanalised STANDARD roofing battens are available in a 19mm x 38mm profile and lengths from 3.0m up to 5.4m, in 300mm increments.
- Other SR Timber Tanalised STANDARD roofing timbers are available – see list opposite.
- Produced from imported spruce and fir (Whitewood) Abies Alba/Picea abies – WPCA or pine (Redwood) Pinus sylvestris – PNSY or combined/mixed species - WPPA, all supplied from either FSC or PEFC fully certified resources.
- The majority of SR Timber Tanalised STANDARD products are dried and should not exceed 22% moisture content.
- High pressure Tanalith E preservative treated to BS:8417:2003 with our standard 60 year lifetime warranty against insect attack and wood rotting fungi (when used correctly and installed above dpc level in buildings).
- Preservative treatment produces a distinctive pale green colouration that does not hide any potential defects within the timber products.
